

ABSTRACT

5           This invention discloses and claims processes for preparing colchicine derivatives, products obtained by these processes, and use thereof. More specifically, the invention relates essentially to a process for preparing organophosphorus compounds and their salts, having therapeutic activity, in particular in oncology.

10